1		Front month Eurodollar Futures Contract Not Ticking as Expected During Roll-In Period After Expiration	When the front-month Eurodollar Futures contract expires, the next Eurodollar Futures contract is rolled-into the applicable environments. The front-month ticks in quarters, and all other months tick in halves. This tick change is not available until the Wednesday preceding the roll-in period after expiration.	5/29/08 For testing purposes in the New Release Environment, please note that client systems will not have the correct tick information until the Sunday following the Production change. It is recommended that you use the Certification environment if you would like to test this contract.	Resolved on 5/23/08.	Open
